APPENDIX G: CONTRIBUTORS

The editors and the PCORI Methodology Committee would like to offer special thanks to the individuals who took part in revision and review of this document, including Susan Hildebrandt, Stanley Ip, Maggi LeDuc, Sally Morton, Sandi Myers, and Sue Sheridan, and all the members of the Board of Governors.

We would also like to recognize the individuals who supported the development of the stories and examples, including Josh Carlson, Michael Demers, Jacqueline Fridge, Eric Hess, Annie LeBlanc, Michel LeBlanc, Courtney Schreiber, Lucinda Shore, Leigh Simmons, Beryl, Juli, Steve, and Suzanne. Kay Dickersin provided assistance in identifying sources for stories. We also thank the patients, researchers, and members of the PCORI Methodology Committee and Board of Governors who reviewed earlier drafts of the stories.

Additionally we thank the following organizations for their contribution to the stories and examples, including Informed Medical Decisions Foundation 1 for Patient Voices: Juli, on page 31; and Healthtalkonline.org 2 for Patient Voices: Sarah, on page 40. Healthtalkonline.org is a website run by the DIPEX Charity, and this example is based on research led by the Health Experiences Research Group, Department of Primary Care Health Sciences, University of Oxford.

In addition, the editors and the PCORI Methodology Committee wish to thank individuals who were instrumental in creating the draft methodology report in 2012. Editors of the draft report included Mark Helfand, Alfred Berg, David Flum, Sherine Gabriel, and Sharon-Lise Normand. Former committee member John Ioannidis provided assistance in drafting portions of the draft report. The committee is especially indebted to former PCORI consultant, Gail Shearer, who provided support for the committee and the report. We also wish to thank members of the draft report editorial team, including Andrew Holtz, Heidi Nelson, Edwin Reid, Lori Frank, Camber Hansen-Karr, Lynn Kitagawa, Lauren Saxton, and Leah Williams and members of the research
