STUDY SPOTLIGHT: PALLIATIVE CARE

Palliative Care Initiated in the Emergency Department

This study focuses on people with advanced illnesses who seek treatment in the emergency department in the last months of life. The study compares how effective nurse-led case management via phone is versus care by palliative care specialists in an outpatient setting. The study is looking at how well the two methods enhance patients' quality of life and reduce healthcare use, loneliness, and burden on caregivers. The project is based at New York University School of Medicine.
