Dr. Von Korff has been PI of grants to KPWHRI (formerly GHRI) from Pfizer Inc. that concern opioid prescribing and safety. KPWHRI has received funding from the Campbell Alliance for FDA mandated studies of opioid safety. Dr. Von Korff is a co-investigator on the Campbell Alliance studies.

Dr. Shortreed has received funding from research grants awarded to KPWHRI (formerly GHRI) by Bristol-Myers Squibb and Pfizer Inc. Dr. Shortreed has worked on a grant awarded to KPWHRI by Pfizer for evaluating a risk reduction initiative for long-term opioid therapy patients. She is also a co-investigator on a grant awarded to KPWHRI from the Campbell Alliance, a consortium of pharmaceutical companies carrying out FDA-mandated studies regarding the safety of extended-release opioids.

Dr. Hansen - The University of Washington has received research funding from Mallinckrodt Pharmaceuticals, a manufacturer of opioid medications. However, the grants Dr. Hansen is affiliated with are studying an alternative product recently acquired by Mallinckrodt as multi-model non-opioid pain management.

Dr. Dublin received a Merck/American Geriatrics Society New Investigator Award in 2010 for unrelated work.

The remaining key personnel report no conflicts.

8. If Recipient has any additional material information relating to disclosures or management of conflicts of interest, or other protections against bias pertinent to the PCORI-Funded Research Project, please describe it here. Print "None" if there is no additional material information as described above.

None
